

Jerusalem is the historic capital of the Jewish people and must remain Israel's undivided capital. Since 1995, Congress pushed to move the U.S. embassy in Israel to Jerusalem without success. I hope this year will be different. I am proud to be an original co-sponsor of H.R. 588, which takes steps toward recognition by the United States of Jerusalem as the capital of Israel. I am also renewing my membership in the House Republican Israel Caucus, a group working to enhance the strategic relationship between our two nations.